Annotated Bibliography - Primary Sources (Civil War Era)

Author or Editor	Title	Publisher	Pub. Date	Annotation	Level	Lens
Ferguson, Leland	Uncommon Ground: Archaeology and Early African America, 1650-1800	Smithsonian Books	2004	Winner of the Southern Anthropological Society's prestigious James Mooney Award, Uncommon Ground takes a unique archaeological approach to examining early African American life. Ferguson draws from black pioneers who worked to establish a place for their distinct identity and lay a rich foundation for the multicultural adjustments that became colonial America.Through pre-Revolutionary period artifacts gathered from plantations and urban slave communities, Ferguson integrates folklore, history, and research to reveal how these enslaved people actually lived. Impeccably researched and beautifully written. - From the publisher	6-12	Archaeology
Little, Barbara J	Historical Archaeology: Why the Past Matters	Left Coast Press	2007	What is historical archaeology and why is it important? Well-known archaeologist Barbara Little addresses these key questions for students and professionals alike. Little begins with a brief history of the field and then explores the goals of historical archaeology and the kinds of questions it asks, and the ethical and political concerns it raises. She shows what historical archaeology can provide that neither of its parent disciplines can offer alone. - Publisher	6-12	Archaeology
Franck, Christine G. H., Hall, Brent, Lide, Maggie, and Steward, Barbara	Traditional American Rooms: Collecting Style, Craftsmanship, and Historic Woodwork (Wissenschaftliche Sozialwerke)	Fox Chapel Publishing	2009	The imitable style, elegance, and character of historic American architecture are beautifully presented in this guided tour to the magnificent rooms at Winterthur Museum and Country Estate. Winterthur is home of Henry Francis du Pont. Winterthur features more than 175 period rooms spanning in time from 1640 to 1840. Each room showcases not only the finest American antique furniture, but also the finest in historic woodwork. Traditional American Rooms is the first book to feature the museum's rooms. Each Georgian and Federal period, the rooms showcase millwork styles featured in the museum's most representative rooms are explained through a unique blend of photographs, history, and technical drawings. - From the publisher	5-12	Architecture
Herr, Rebecca Shulman	Looking at Art in the Classroom: Art Interpretation from the Guggenheim Museum	Teachers College Press	2010	This book details the Guggenheim Museum's classroom-tested, inquiry-based approach to learning. This user-friendly guide provides teachers (grades 2-6) with strategies and recommendations for investigating art in relation to themselves, their classrooms, and the classroom teacher. Art Investigation provides an exciting way to study contemporary and historical cultures while also improving critical thinking skills. Each of the 12 units in this book is organized around different artists and includes an overview of the artist's work, a profile of the artist's career, tasks, and the ethical and political concerns it raises. She shows what historical archaeology can provide that neither of its parent disciplines can offer alone. - Publisher	2-6	Art
MindSparks	History Unfolding: A MindSparks DBQ and Essay Writing Program	MindSparks	2007	This skills-based curriculum consists of eight sequential, cumulative lessons that help students interpret primary sources and answer document-based questions (DBQs). The lessons cover (1) evaluating evidence and sources; (2) reading and writing critical primary sources; (3) analyzing the question; (4) developing a thesis statement; (5) outlining and planning essay structure; (6) crafting an introductory paragraph; (7) writing and linking support paragraphs; and (8) writing conclusions. Each of the eight lessons contains 2–6 exercises for each of the eight topics, while a 125-page teacher's manual provides detailed guidelines for teaching each lesson. Reproducible handouts. - MindSparks	7-12	Curriculum - Documents
Finkenbine, Roy E.	Sources of the African-American Past: Primary Sources in American History (2nd Edition)	Longman	2003	This collection of primary sources from Longman's Primary Sources in American History series presents a view of our nation's history as seen through the eyes of African Americans, and helps the reader come to the experiences of ordinary people while offering a vivid snapshot of those lives in different historical periods. - From the publisher	6-12	Documents
Baxter, Karen	Primary Sources for the Interactive Whiteboard: Colonial America, Revised Movement, Civil War	Scholastic Teacher Resources	2009	From the concise, succinct MacGroup Compact to enterprising Gold Rush advertisements, this whiteboard-ready collection of authentic primary documents provides a wealth of resources for teaching about the colonial period, the Revolution, and the Civil War. Teaching materials provide background information, document-based activities, discussion questions, and extension activities. Each primary source includes a transcription and an interpretation. Document-based activities are numbered in the context of its historical period. Includes a CD with Powerpoint-Activboard files. - From the publisher	4-8	Documents
Ballmaster, Beverly	U.S. History - A Document Based Activity Book: Teaching and Writing Critically About Primary Sources	People's Publishing Group	2005	From the Declaration of Independence to the Voting Rights Act of 1965, this thought-provoking collection examines 100 seminal documents in American history. For each document, the book provides historical context, critical-thinking questions, and research/ writing/discussion activities. Documents are grouped by theme, including Colonial Period, Revolution, Civil War, and Reconstruction, and are presented in thematic groupings (Liberty, Division of Powers, Executive Power, Economics, Civil Rights, Foreign Affairs, Federal Courts) and also listed chronologically. Illustrated with a variety of primary sources, including photographs, archival drawings, maps, and pictures of artifacts. - From minnesotaconnect.com	7-12	Documents
Doherty, Barbara and Jaffe, Charlotte	Document Based Activities Using Primary Sources in the Middle Grades	Educational Impressions	2003	U.S. History Document-Based Activities is divided into three sections: The American Revolution, Westward Movement, and Women Suffrage. Each section contains background information on the topic, a variety of primary sources, and challenging activities to help you integrate the artifacts into your curriculum. - From Worldcat	6-8	Documents
Globe Fearon	Using Primary Sources Level B with Transparencies	Pearson Education	2003	This resource provides students with the skills and strategies necessary for interpreting, evaluating, and responding to information from primary sources. Includes reproducible transparencies of primary sources and activities to help students analyze and interpret each source.	6-12	Documents
Hilton, Kenneth	Document Based Assessment for U.S. History	J. Weston Walch	2006	Covers significant eras in U.S. history. Encourages students to analyze evidence, documents, and other data to make informed decisions. Includes guidelines for students, answer guides, and rubrics for assessing performance. - From publisher	8-12	Documents
National Archives and Records Administration	Teaching with Documents: The Colonial Period to 1877	National Archives Trust Fund Board	2002	The Article Compilations feature 113 articles, most of which have appeared in Social Education, the journal of the National Council for the Social Studies. Each article supports a document from the National Archives, providing a historical context and related teaching activities. The Document Analysis Worksheets section includes 30 worksheets that can be photocopied and used with primary sources. Each of the seven historical materials, including posters, maps, photographs, cartoons, and documents, is represented by a worksheet. Additional teachers will want to use the interactive CD-ROM in each booklet, which includes digital images of the original documents for engaging classroom activities. - Publisher	6-12	Documents
O'Connor, Edward	Teaching and Using Document-Based Questions for Middle School	Teacher Ideas Press	2002	This guide focuses on using Document Based Questions (DBQs) to challenge students to interpret primary sources such as letters, diaries, speeches and other historical documents. - From publisher	6-8	Documents
Skinner, Ellen	Women and the National Experience: Sources in Women's History, Volume 1 to 1877 (3rd Edition)	Prentice Hall	2003	Women and the National Experience provides students with thought-provoking primary sources. Combining classic and unusual sources, this anthology explores the private voices and public lives of women throughout U.S. history, and also lets students experience what historians really do and how history is written. - From the publisher	6-12	Documents
The National Archives	Our Documents: 100 Milestone Documents from the National Archives	Oxford University Press	2003	Oxford University Press has published a commemorative book of the 100 milestone documents that have shaped our nation. Comprised of facsimiles of the original documents, the book includes the Declaration of Independence, the Bill of Rights, and the Emancipation Proclamation. The book is bound in a format that mimics the National Archives' own display. Also by John W. Carlin, Archivist of the United States, and an essay on how the documents were selected. The entry for each document includes a short introduction, a facsimile, and a transcript of the document. Filled with color photos and illustrations, this book is a valuable companion for students, teacher, and all Americans who appreciate the historical legacy of the nation's archives. - From readercentric.gov	6-12	Documents
Vermont Historical Society	Yours, in the cause of the slave: a Document Packet for Teachers	Vermont Historical Society	1997	A 50 page document packet tied to Vermont's Framework of Standards. Documents are printed on a heavy, durable paper for use in the classroom. Contains historical documents and their teachers. Contains historical essays, comparative charts, and letters between abolitionists talking about their activities involving fugitives. - Vermont Historical Society	5-8	Documents
Clarke, Caroline Cowles; Richards, and Sengstock, Margaret Elizabeth Munson	Village life in America, 1852-1872: including Women's Diary of the American Civil War as told to the diary of a school girl	Nabu Press	2010	This is a reproduction of a book published before 1923. This book may have occasional imperfections such as missing or blurred pages, poor pictures, errant marks, etc. We have either used the original edition, or the most recent edition in this reproduction. Our goal is to create a book that is affordable, durable, and of the highest quality, that is true to the original work. Each book is carefully inspected and repaired to ensure that it meets our standards. We believe this work is culturally important, and despite the imperfections, have elected to bring it back into print as part of our continuing commitment to the preservation of printed works worldwide. - From publication info	7-12	Documents - Diary
Colbert, David	Eyewitness to America: 500 years of American History in the words of those who saw it happen	Vintage	1998	Hundreds of eyewitness accounts of great moments in American history include Langston Hughes on the Scottsboro boys, Jack London on the San Francisco earthquake, and other voices from Columbus, Lincoln, Twain, Earhart, Hemingway, and Dylan.	7-12	Documents - Eyewitness Accounts
Dorr, Franklin J.	The Journal of a Civil War Surgeon	University Press of Nebraska	2003	J. Franklin Dorr's journal offers a rare perspective on three years of the Civil War as seen through the eyes of a surgeon at the front. The journal, taken from letters written to his wife, Maria, describes in lengthy and colorful detail the daily life of a doctor during the war. Dorr's regimental surgeon in the Nineteenth Massachusetts Volunteers and was promoted to acting medical director of the Second Corps, Army of the Potomac. - From the publisher	6-12	Documents - Journal
Courtney, Steve and Bennett, Peter	"Proudest Day" of Abolitionist Frederick Douglass Recalled in Newly Discovered Speech	University of Georgia Press	January, 2012	"Proudest Day" of Abolitionist Frederick Douglass Recalled in Newly Discovered Speech "Provides us with an invaluable resource, weaving the mundane and extraordinary events of the war into a seamless narrative that allows us to view the war as it really was, at least through the eyes of one well-educated man. Dorr's descriptions of military maneuvers, battles, and religious sensibilities make him a trusty observer of a conflict that forever changed the course of American history . . . His letters provide a fascinating glimpse into the life of a Civil War surgeon." - Civil War Book Review "Dorr's journal is a valuable addition to the ranks of great events updated in a huge landscape, but also, particularly, published in the lives of ordinary people who believed, however rightly or wrongly, in a cause for which they were willing to die."--Books and Culture	7-12	Documents - Letters
Hefner, Harold and Symonds, Craig	The New York Times The Complete Civil War 1861-1865	Black Dog & Leventhal Publishers	2010	"This is a fascinating and riveting look at the most important event in American history as seen through the eyes of an institution that was integral to the development of the nation's character. Spanning more than 100 years, the Civil War seems new and fresh, unfolding day after anxious day, as the fate of the republic hangs in the balance." -Ken Burns	7-12	Documents - Periodical
Kisner, Kelly	TIME The Civil War: An Illustrated History	Time	2011	To bring the tale to life, the book focuses on little-seen photographs and original artifacts from the period: sketches from soldier's diaries, letters from battlefront to home, and newspaper clippings. Each of the book's 12 chapters, from "The Secession Crisis" to "Reconstruction," is a series of excerpts from the letters and diaries of soldiers, officers and civilians, with the voices of the North and South alternating, each sweep of the war telling the tale in chronological fashion, as the war evolves from a quiet beginning to become a mammoth struggle that consumed the divided nation. - Publisher	7-12	Documents - Periodical
Primary Source Inc.	Our Non-Day Dagoon: 1861-1877 [Inscribed] [Limited Edition]	Heinemann	2004	Overcobweb 4 is the groundbreaking five-volume series Making Freedom: African Americans in U.S. History.Developed by Primary Source Inc., a nonprofit organization promoting historically accurate, culturally inclusive studies, the series offers a wealth of primary source materials compiled by leading scholars, classroom teachers, and curriculum specialists. Volume 4 explores the events that led to the Civil War and the difficult Reconstruction period that followed; this book and accompanying CD recount, like no others, the African American experience during this momentous period in history. Includes CD-ROM. - From publisher	6-12	Documents & Images
Wagner, Margaret E.	The Library of Congress Illustrated Timeline of the Civil War	Little, Brown and Company	2011	With striking visuals from the Library of Congress' unparalleled archive, THE LIBRARY OF CONGRESS ILLUSTRATED TIMELINE OF THE CIVIL WAR is the first book to tell the story of the war entirely through pictures. Each page features a single day of the war. A detailed chronological timeline of the war captures the harrowing and heroic moments of 1,500 days in first-hand accounts from soldiers, nurses, and front-line journalists. Readers will be enthralled by speech drafts in Lincoln's own hand, quotes from the likes of Walt Whitman, Clara Barton, and Frederick Douglass, and the most famous battle plans and photographs of the war. This Illustrated Timeline's exciting new source material and bold organization will give Civil War enthusiasts a fresh look at this defining period in our nation's history.	3-12	Documents & Images
Beschloss, Michael	Records of Our National Life: American History Documents Through Primary Sources	D-Giles Ltd	2008	A highly illustrated memento of American history from the earliest days of nationhood right up to the present, as preserved and presented by the National Archives.	5-12	Documents and Images
Goffigliono, Kevin J.	Vermont Voices: Vermont's Story in Documents	Vermont Historical Society	1999	Over 130 documents, sixteen full-page illustrations, and eleven essays present the length and breadth of Vermont's past, primarily in Vermonters' own words. - Vermont Historical Society	5-12	Documents and Images
Guyette, Elise	Discovering Black Vermont: African American Farmers in Hinesburgh, 1790-1890	Vermont Historical Society	2010	2011 winner for the Hathaway Award, recognizing outstanding work in the field of Vermont history. Guyette's book paints a rich portrayal of early settlement life in Vermont for African Americans by re-creating the daily lives of black individuals and families who lived in Hinesburgh between 1790 and 1890. Guyette's research is thorough, and her writing is engaging and accessible. The book is also a springboard to educate Vermonters about the cultural diversity throughout the history of our state and encouraging others to seek out unique populations within their own communities. - Vermont Historical Society	3-12	Documents and Images
Lincoln, Abraham and Hale, Edward Everett	The President's Words: A Selection Of Passages From The Speeches, Addresses, And Letters Of Abraham Lincoln	Nabu Press	2010	This is a reproduction of a book published before 1923. This book may have occasional imperfections such as missing or blurred pages, poor pictures, errant marks, etc. We have either used the original edition, or the most recent edition in this reproduction. Our goal is to create a book that is affordable, durable, and of the highest quality, that is true to the original work. Each book is carefully inspected and repaired to ensure that it meets our standards. We believe this work is culturally important, and despite the imperfections, have elected to bring it back into print as part of our continuing commitment to the preservation of printed works worldwide. - From publication info	7-12	Documents and Speeches
Goldhill Home Media	America's Documents of Freedom: Just the Facts	Goldhill	2002-03	This extensive series examines the historical documents that changed and shaped American history. Each 30-minute program examines an era of American history, including the political, social, and economic factors that contributed to the creation of each document. This unique series addresses the study of American history in a fresh, lively manner.	7-12	Documents/ DVD
Wilson, Woody E. & Weston, Gerald D.	Critical Thinking Using Primary Sources in U.S. History	J. Weston Walch	2000	Using extensive source materials, Critical Thinking Using Primary Sources in U.S. History examines the lives of thirteen individuals who made significant contributions to American history.	9-12	General
Cooper, Carol Davidson	Archival Treasures: A Crash Course in Architectural Styles	Rizzoli	2008	Cooper's book is an informative and entertaining key design cheat, and provides overviews on how geography, history, and religion influenced architecture. - From Worldcat	7-12	Historic Buildings
White, Charles	Teaching with Historic Places: A Curriculum Supplement for Professional Training and Development	National Trust for Historic Preservation	1995	Practical advice for teachers, preservationists, and museum and site interpreters for developing programs and instructional materials that use on-location places as primary sources. From amazon.com	6-12	Historic Buildings
Gaddis, John Lewis	The Landscape of History: How Historians Map the Past	Oxford University Press	2004	What is history and who should we study it? Is there such a thing as historical truth? Is history a science? One of the most accomplished historians at work today, John Lewis Gaddis, answers these questions and more in The Landscape of History. How and Why We Do It. History provides a searching look at the historian's craft, as well as a strong argument for why a historical consciousness should matter to us today. - From the publisher	6-12	Historic Method
Leab, Bruce	Why Won't You Just Tell Us the Answer?: Teaching Historical Thinking in Grades 7-12	Nanbous Publications	2011	Every major measure of students' historical understanding since 1917 has demonstrated that students do not retain, understand, or enjoy history. Why Won't You Just Tell Us the Answer? is the first book to offer a way to change this sad state of affairs and metacurriculum. Over the last fifteen years, Bruce has refined a method of teaching history that removes the process used by historians, where students are taught to think historically, from the content historians produce. Why Won't You Just Tell Us the Answer? fills a void in the field. It is the first book to offer a process for how to successfully implement a research-based approach to history.	7-12	Historical Thinking
Lindquist, Tarry	Social Studies at the Center: Integrating Kids, Content, and Literacy	Heinemann	2000	Tarry Lindquist is an enthusiastic proponent and master classroom teacher who has worked extensively with both students and teachers in grades K-8, known for the innovative and practical content of her teaching. Tarry has been recognized as Elementary Teacher of the Year by the Massachusetts Council for the Social Studies and has been featured in Social Education. Her first book, Seeing Yourself in History, is a lively, enjoyable, and accessible look at a wealth of practical ideas and proven techniques that can be implemented immediately in most elementary classrooms. - Publisher	3-8	Historical Thinking
Martin, Daisy, Monic-Sams, Chauncey, and Wineberg, Sam	Reading Like a Historian: Teaching Literacy in Middle and High School History Classrooms	Teachers College Press	2011	The focusing questions, the teaching tips, and the primary sources make it possible for any teacher of history and social studies to help students become more motivated, careful, and effective readers of historical information. The heart of the book is the authors' desire to accomplish this while working with even the most traditional history textbook. Any educator interested in producing more thoughtful readers of history will find this book helpful. - Grant Wiggins, president of Authentic Education, co-author of Understanding by Design and Schooling by Design	6-12	Historical Thinking
Hoose, Phillip	We Were There, Too! Young People in U.S. History	Farrar Straus Giroux	2011	From the boys who sailed with Columbus to today's young activists, this unique book brings to life the contributions of young people throughout American history. Based on primary sources and including 16 full-color paintings commissioned by the author, Hoose highlights the fascinating stories of more than 25 young people from diverse cultures. Young readers will be hooked into history as they meet Christopher Columbus's cabin boy, Juan de la Cosa; a young Apache warrior named Goyathlay, who would become known as Geronimo; a boy who fought in the western Africa and United states army; Seaybah, who helped her father create slavery; Sacagawea, who was kidnapped by a Hidatsa war party when she was a child and later, as Jessie Cowsa, a teenager who risked joining Cesar Chavez's fight for a better life for migrant workers. Rich in fascinating details, knowledgeable voice provides a rich historical context-making this not only a great reference but a great read. - From the publisher	5-12	Images/Visual
Social Studies School Service	Analyzing Visual Primary Sources	Social Studies School Service	2006-08	These lively and engaging PowerPoint presentations help teachers walk students step by step through the process of analyzing and interpreting primary sources, political cartoons, propaganda posters, and other types of visual primary sources. Introductory slides place each source in historical context; subsequent slides combine annotations that break down each source into its constituent parts with questions that encourage students to think critically about the source's meaning and its relevance to the historical period under review. Notes pages provide background information and suggested interpretations of each source. Each presentation comes with an extra primary source images (included on the same CD as the PowerPoint®) for students to analyze on their own. Grades 9–12 Social Studies School Service. CD#D	8-12	Images/Visual
Social Studies School Service	How to Interpret Primary Sources Poster Kit	Social Studies School Service	2003	Eight posters spell out basic methods and concepts in interpreting primary source documents, an accompanying CD-ROM PowerPoint lecture amplifies the points made by the posters, and reproducible activity sheets reinforce the nine principles by guiding students through analyzing a variety of primary sources. Nine Principles for Analyzing Primary Sources Poster Set Primary Source Vernon Secondary Sources, "Thus," "How to Analyze an Artifact," "How to Analyze a Political Cartoon. - From the publisher	6-12	Images/Visual
	American History Picture Packs	Instructional Resources Corporation	2003	Each American History PicturePack Collection covers one of ten major periods in American history. Each Collection contains a thorough, in-depth survey of crucial lessons - each one a segment of history - full of significant events, personalities and narratives (articles). PicturePacks are engineered, and allow you to order just the historical content you need. Created in brief (web-based) format, they are also available in full-text format. Each Collection contains a minimum of 100 pictures, maps, charts, etc. Each is 100% Kid-Friendly and familiar, and there is no installation and minimal user instruction. PicturePacks are delivered on disk, that is, there is no resources, designed to allow you to use the rich, varied content to create presentations, handouts, student reports, and much more. Simple, clear instructions are included. PicturePack Collections are delivered on the Internet.	6-12	Images/Visual
	U.S History image Library 1500s and 19th Century, 20th Century	Multimedia Learning	2004	Over 3,500 images on each disc, including primary source documents, charts, graphs, photographs, maps, political cartoons, and art from various periods in American and World history. Grouped by topic and labeled with information about the image; they can be used in several ways to both teach and students. - From the publisher	6-12	Images/Visual
Wessels, Tom	Vermont Voices, 1609 Through the 1990s: A Documentary History of the Green Mountain State	Countryman Press	2010	New Wessels takes his wonderful ability to discern much of the history of the forest from visual clues and boils it all down to a manageable field guide that can be used in the woods and out to discover the hidden history of the forest. Wessels has developed a knack—a fascinating series of objective questions—to guide you through the process of analyzing what you see. You'll feel like a wonderland detective. The book is fun. The woods will never be the same. - From the publisher	3-12	Landscapes
Wessels, Tom; Brian D. Cohen, Ann H. Zwinger	Reading the Forested Landscape: A Natural History of New England	Countryman Press	2005	Landscape is much more than scenery to be observed or even terrain to be traveled, as this fascinating and many-layered book vividly shows us. Packed into the book's 300 pages are the stories of how we have inhabited it, the forces that have shaped it, and the ways we have changed it. Its antiquated roads and articulate stone walls, Wessels teaches us to read a landscape the way we might solve a mystery novel.	6-12	Landscapes
Miller, William J	Great Maps of the Civil War: Printed Battles and Campaigns Featuring 32 Removable Maps (Museum in a Book)	Thomas Nelson	2004	Most people interested in the Civil War are fascinated by maps - for what they tell about the battles, for what they tell about the terrain, and in some cases for the artistic beauty. The maps reproduced in this book are historical documents in their own right and a source of great interest. Each map collection - until now. Fifteen chapters in Great Maps of the Civil War each contain two or three maps that can be pulled out of a pocket in the back of the book. The maps are full color and are reproduced at the same size as the battles and most of the maps. the book sells about Civil War magnetizers and the methods they used. - From the publisher	7-12	Maps and Images
Wrygard, Patrick	Learning and Teaching with Maps	Routledge	2006	Learning and Teaching with Maps explains how children and young people read, understand, and interpret maps and how teaching with maps can help them develop their understanding of the world around them. Drawing on research from a wide range of fields, including cognitive mapping, digital atlases and Geographical Information Systems (GIS) demands new skills alongside traditional ones such as locating places and using a map to find the way. - Publisher	3-8	Maps and Images
DeMauro, Donna M. Hoffman, Mary Ann Stephen H. ; Sacks, Howard L.	Catching Stories: A Practical Guide to Oral History	Swallow Press	2009	In neighborhoods, schools, community centers, and workplaces, people are using oral history to capture and collect the kinds of stories usually overlooked by traditional history. Catching Stories is a practical guide to oral history that shows how to collect stories that reflect beliefs, traditions, and values—the stories of our lives. Crafting Stories: A Practical Guide to Oral History is a clear and comprehensive introduction for those with little or no experience in planning or implementing oral history projects. - Publisher	3-12	Oral History
Hart, Cynthia and Samson, Lisa	The Oral History Workshop: Ideas and Activities for Learning About Our Lives, Our Families, Our Communities, and Our World	Workman Publishing Company	2001	The Oral History Workshop breaks down what too often feels like an overwhelming project into a series of easily manageable steps. Jam packed with ideas, activities, and inspiration, this book is a must-have for anyone who wants to capture the stories of their lives. Each of the three, pre-post, and core of collection, including, including the questions should be open-ended and designed to elicit more than a yes or no answer. Before the interview out track, how to be sensitive to your subject's energy levels, and the art of archiving or scrapbooking the interview into a permanent record. - From the publisher	3-12	Oral History
Doing Oral History	Doing Oral History	Twayne Publishers	2003	Doing Oral History is a definitive step-by-step guide that provides advice and explanations on how to create recordings that illuminate. Using oral histories for generations to come. Illustrated with examples from a wide range of interviewing projects, this authoritative guide offers clear, practical, and detailed advice for students, teachers, researchers, and amateur genealogists who wish to record the history of their own families and communities. - From amazon.com	6-12	Oral History
Rogers, Kim Lacy	Life and Death in the Delta: African American Folklore and the Making of the Blues (Chicago Campus Folklore Studies in Oral History)	Palgrave Macmillan	2006	Using oral histories with African American activists and community leaders, Kim Lacy Rogers explores the intersection between the world of the sacred and the secular in twentieth-century African American culture. Rogers's interviews with Delta residents reveal the thousands of black blueses in the Mississippi Delta in the twentieth century. This work reveals the importance of the oral tradition in the transmission of community service and leadership in the lives of women and men who became activists. It also examines the disillusionment and anger that many Delta leaders felt about the changes that they saw in their communities. - Publisher	6-12	Oral History
Whitman, Glenn	Dialogue with the Past: Engaging Students and Meeting Standards through Oral History	Alethhia Press	2004	Oral history is a powerful force for empowering young people with a love of history. Peppered with useful tips, examples from students and teachers, and reproducible forms, along with an comprehensive bibliography, this book will be a vital and inspirational tool for anyone working with students to preserve their own family history. - From the publication info	3-12	Oral History
Wood, Linda	Oral History Projects in Your Classroom	Oral History Association	2011	This guide, written for classroom teachers, includes sample forms, handouts, numerous examples, curriculum suggestions and discussion questions, and analysis of textbooks and interpretation of examples of historical documentation.	3-12	Oral History
Yow, Valerie Raleigh	Recording Oral History: A Practical Guide for Social Scientists	Sage Publications	2005	In Recording Oral History, Second Edition, Valerie Raleigh Yow builds on the foundation of her classic text with a fully updated and substantially expanded new edition. One of the most widely used and highly regarded textbooks ever published in the field, Yow's Recording Oral History is a comprehensive, practical, and accessible guide to conducting oral history interviews in the social sciences. It includes discussions of ethics and interviewer relationships, examples of successful and unsuccessful projects, and analysis of techniques and the interpretation of meanings in different cultures of research. Yow also includes an appendix of a wide variety of descriptions including history, sociology, anthropology, education, psychology, social work, and ethnographic methods.- Publisher	6-12	Oral History
Wickman, Donald	"A Forty Fine Appearance": The Vermont Civil War Photographs of George Houghton	Vermont Historical Society	2011	Donald H. Wickman's stunning new book focuses on Brattleboro photographer, George Houghton, and his photographs that captured the very essence of Vermont soldiers during the Civil War. With over 100 images, "A Forty Fine Appearance" pairs photographs with excerpts from the personal diaries and letters of Vermont soldiers. - Vermont Historical Society	5-12	Photographs
Brooks, Robert	Rural Voices: Place-Conscious Education and the Teaching of Writing	Teachers College Press	2003	Featuring lively essays from rural elementary and secondary teachers, this volume describes the theory and practice of place-conscious education. Contributors show how to integrate writing instruction with the study of local history, culture, and ecology. Examples of rich classroom writing programs that link learners with their rural communities and can serve as models for both public engagement and pedagogy. - From amazon.com	5-12	Place-based education
Clark, Delia and Glazer, Steven	Questing: A Guide to Creating Community Treasure Hunts	University Press of New England	2004	In the process of undertaking quests participants "celebrate and strengthen community life" by forging "lifelong connections to the distinct landscapes and cultural features of their home ground." This book is intended to be a resource for teachers, parents, teachers, community group leaders, and others interested in learning about where they live and building community ties through questing activities.	3-12	Place-based education
Smith, Gregory A.	Place-Based Education: Learning To Be Where We Are.	Phi Delta Kappa, Inc.	2002	A brief narrative description of the journal article, document, or resource Describes the characteristics, benefits, and common elements of place-based education. Identifies five thematic patterns: cultural studies, natural studies, real-world problem solving, internships and entrepreneurial opportunities, and induction into community processes. -From eric.ed.gov	5-12	Place-based education
Smith, Gregory A. and David A. Gruenewald	Place-Based Education in the Global Age: Local Diversity	Routledge	2008	"The editors and contributors are pioneers in the field of educational theory and policy. . . . They are opening new areas of discussion and research that will be of great interest to scholars and students alike." -Choice "Place-based education is the process of experiments included reveal the richness of discussions about ecological and cultural issues, and the stories told are the types that practitioners and teachers will be able to relate to in their daily undertakings." -Rudra Sen Thakur, The Times Literary Supplement	5-12	Place-based education
Smith, Gregory A. and David Sobel	Place- and Community-Based Education in Schools	Routledge	2010	Place- and community-based education – an approach to teaching and learning that starts with the local – addresses two critical gaps in the experience of many children and youth in our society today. The first is the gap between school and real life. Place-based education's efforts to ground learning in real-world challenges and opportunities in the community help address this gap. The second is the gap between children and nature. Place-based education's efforts to use the local community and environment as a starting point for learning about how they function and how to protect and restore them help address this gap.	5-12	Place-based education
Sobel, David and James Harris, Jeffrey Kaplan, Gershuny, Elizabeth	Place-based Education: Connecting Classrooms & Communities, With Index	The Orion Society	2003	The most comprehensive review of place-based education – its pedagogy and its practice – yet to appear, by the author of the highly influential book Beyond Ecophobia. Through academic research, practical examples, and step-by-step strategies from dozens classrooms in action, David Sobel makes a powerful case for place-based education as a way to improve academic performance and test scores. Place-based Education uses the local community and environment as the starting place for curriculum learning, strengthening community bonds, appreciation for the natural world, and a commitment to citizen engagement. From orionmagazine.com	3-12	Place-based education
Sobel, David	The Power of Community-Centered Education Teaching as a Craft of Place	Rowman & Littlefield Education	2007	The Power of Community-Centered Education provides psychological, sociological, historical and philosophical insights into why place-based education is so important for children and youth. Sobel, David, Ph.D. is a faculty member at Antioch New England Graduate School, institutions that have public outreach programs in conflict resolution, community building, educational entrepreneurship, and support the work of high schools by offering research opportunities and scaffolding to secondary education. -From amazon.com	3-12	Place-based education
Weeks, Michael	The Complete Civil War Road Trip Guidebook: Your Step-by-Step Guide to More than 600 Civil War Sites, from Antietam to Eggnog's Charge	Countryman Press	2009	The book outlines ten suggested itineraries for short road trips that cover every major battle of the war that will enable a traveler to experience the sites, museums, and battlefields that are the most vivid. Each chapter is filled with a wealth of practical and historical information on and reviews of almost 450 historical sites across the United States and Canada related to the Civil War, with a full description of the principal battlefields listed by the Civil War Sites Advisory Commission, as well as lodging and other travel information. - From the publisher	6-12	Place-based education
	The American Reader: Words that Moved a Nation	HarperPerennial	2000	The American Reader is a stirring and memorable anthology that captures the many facets of American culture and history in prose and verse. The 200 poems, songs, essays, stories, letters, and documents were chosen from the suggestions of thousands of Americans. These are the words that have inspired, enraged, delighted, chastened, and comforted Americans in days gone by. Gathered here are the Declaration of Independence, Lincoln's Second Inaugural Address, and Martin Luther King's "I Have a Dream" speech; the poetry of Walt Whitman, the jazz that all Americans – black and white, native born and immigrant, Hispanic, Asian, and Native American, pour and wealthy – have played in creating the nation's character. - From amazon.com	6-12	Poetry
Brown, Cynthia Stokes	Connecting the Past: History Workshops in Middle and High Schools	Heinemann	1994	"For the faint-hearted but eager beginner to the practiced but curious old hand, Connecting with the Past offers history workshop as a way to go." -Social Education "Brown's book is a wonderful guide to . . . history workshop." -Oral History Review "This is a how-to-do-it history course drawn from actual classroom practice." -Choice	6-12	Teaching Strategies
Clark, Sarah Kartchner	Writing Strategies for Social Studies	Shell Education	2007	An ASP Award Winner, this resource provides detailed strategies and activities with classroom examples across multiple grade ranges. Lesson practice standards-based strategies to help students understand Social Studies content. Specific suggestions for differentiating instruction for English language learners, gifted students, and students with special needs are included with every strategy. Includes a Teacher Resource CD of customizable graphic organizers and other student activities. - Publisher	1-8	Teaching Strategies
Jensen, Gary "Skip" Barbera, Rosemary	Write to Know Series: Nonfiction Writing Strategies for Social Studies	Advanced Learning Press	2008	The value of nonfiction writing lies not only in the writing, but also in the editing and rewriting. Research overwhelmingly indicates that students who engage in the writing process, including revising and editing, become better writers. These principles can be taught immediately to the classroom and students. - From amazon.com	3-12	Teaching Strategies
Lawson, James W.	Teaching What Really Happened: How to Avoid the Tyranny of Textbooks and Improve Student Learning with Primary Source Materials (Multicultural Education Series)	Teachers College Press	2009	How did people get here? Why did Europe send ships to the New World? Is Teaching What Really Happened. Lawson goes beyond the usual textbook-dominated viewpoints to illuminate a wealth of intriguing, often hidden facts about America's past. Calling for a new way to teach history, this book will help teachers move beyond textbook-dominated instruction to engage students in the process of inquiry with Native American, slavery, and race materials. Throughout, Lawson shows time and again how teaching what really happened motivates and stirs all students to get more involved in the past. - From publication info	3-12	Teaching Strategies
Macenia, Stephanie	Reading Strategies for Social Studies	Shell Education	2007	This book provides detailed reading strategies and graphic organizers for social studies, as well as classroom examples by grade range. Lesson practice standards-based strategies to help students understand Social Studies content. Specific suggestions for differentiating instruction for English language learners, gifted students, and students with special needs are included with every strategy. Includes a Teacher Resource CD of customizable graphic organizers and other student activities. - Publisher	1-8	Teaching Strategies
National Writing Project	Writing for a Change: Boosting Literacy and Learning Through Social Action	Jossey-Bass	2006	Writing for a Change shows teachers how to engage students in "real world" problem-solving activities that can help them to acquire literacy skills and develop a sense of civic responsibility. Drawing on the experiences of more than 200 teachers in the National Writing Project network, the book describes the innovative Social Action process for encouraging students to take ownership of their own learning—in analysis options, develop action plans, discover solutions, and finally to reflect on their work. - Publisher	3-12	Teaching Strategies
National Writing Project - Nagin, Carl and Gallas, Kathryn and Graham-Faulkner, Elyse and Hicks, Troy	Because Writing Matters: Improving Student Writing in Our Schools	Jossey-Bass	2010	The connectivity of the internet and the latest digital technologies have opened vast new opportunities, formats, and audiences for writing. Digital writing presents more than just novel processes—it can open up new understanding on an e-mail message, students can blog, text message, chat online, or create narratives for multi-media productions. - Publisher	3-12	Teaching Strategies
National Writing Project - Nagin, Carl	Because Writing Matters: Improving Student Writing in Our Schools	Jossey-Bass	2006	Sponsored by the National Writing Project, a nationally recognized organization for teachers, Because Writing Matters offers step-by-step guidance on improving writing in the classroom. Recommendations are based on the latest research and are supported by examples that are neatly achieved to the larger and longer term. Teaching writing well involves multiple teaching strategies that deal with both process and product, both form and content. This book offers many examples of how to integrate these strategies in classroom practice.	3-12	Teaching Strategies
Nebar, Joan Brodsky	Exercises to the Past: Strategies for Teaching American History in Grades 5-12	Nanbous	2007	Throughout history, people have often expressed controversial and conflicting interpretations of current events. In this unique resource, Joan Brodsky Schur reveals how compelling and engaging the study of history becomes when students are encouraged to examine history through events in American history. Exercises to the Past examines six types of primary sources: diaries, travelogues, letters, news articles, political cartoons, and speeches. Each chapter includes a brief introduction to the source, a sample lesson plan, reproducible forms, and apply to them in their own words and and argument. - Publisher	5-12	Teaching Strategies
Shoh